

Every female spirit has spiritual energy that sits in front of the pelvis. This female energy can be used to heal ourselves and create our lives.

When we ground and move our female energy, we release other's ideas on our femininity and our power. We create the room for our goals to be realized. Our heads become clearer as we let go of the people we are healing with our energy. We let go of pain that comes with our bleeding time as we reset the vibration in our ovaries. We have sex that truly matters and expresses ourselves. We recognize the subtle influence our female energy has in our daily lives. We heal our female line and ourselves as we slough off the discontent of growing up female in our society; we claim our birthright as women: joy and power within our bodies.
